

10,000 DOLLARS REWARD.

ON Saturday night last, the Cumberland Bank was entered by false keys, and robbed of over

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

About one hundred ninety-five thousand dollars in bills of that Bank, and about nine thousand dollars in bills of other Banks—About sixteen hundred dollars in Gold, and five thousand four hundred dollars in Silver. A part of the specie has been recovered.

The Cumberland Bank bills taken, were Fifties, Twenties and Tens. There are no fifties nor twenty dollar bills, and very few ten dollar bills, lawfully in circulation. This circumstance may lead to detection. And all good citizens are cautioned not to receive such bills, because, having been stolen, they will not be paid at the Bank. Among the bills of other Banks, were perhaps one thousand dollars of the old Portland Bank, and about one thousand dollars of Maine Bank bills. There was also a five hundred dollar note on the Mechanic and Manufacturers Bank in Boston.

Whoever will procure the whole of the money so lost to be restored to the Bank, shall receive NINE THOUSAND DOLLARS in addition to the sum already offered in their advertisement of the 2d current, and in that proportion for whatever sum may be recovered and restored to the Bank.

By order of the Directors of the Cumberland Bank.

Portland, August 4, 1818.
